When to go to Urgent Care vs. Emergency Room

Urgent care: When your child has an illness or injury that is not a medical emergency and it is after hours or you cannot get in to your primary care provider. Examples of this include:

- Minor allergic reactions (rash)
- Asthma/mild difficulty breathing/mild wheezing
- Fever that you have concern about in a child over 2 months of age
- Viral illness such as influenza, COVID
- Pink eye
- Muscle sprains and strains
- Mild injury, including head injury without loss of consciousness
- Minor/small burns
- Minor/small cuts, including those needing stitches
- Pain with urination or UTI
- Battling at ears/ear pain/ear discharge
- Rashes
- Sore throat
- Vomiting and diarrhea

Emergency room: Go to the ER for a serious illness or injury. If an illness or injury is life threatening, call 911 right away. Examples appropriate for an emergency room visit include:

- Allergic reactions (anaphylactic shock)
- Asthma/difficulty breathing/respiratory distress/significant wheezing
- Broken bones
- Burns
- Dehydration
- Overdose or ingesting poisonous substance
- Serious injury, including head injury with loss of consciousness, or head injury with neurologic symptoms (i.e. slurred speech, vision changes, loss of sensation)
- Fever in infants eight weeks of age or younger
- Seizure
- Severe pain, including abdominal pain
- Any suicidal thoughts
